Why Morrison won't take his just reward

There are calls for everything to be thrown at Morrison. Take the example of the money which is made available for Britain just now—especially from the U.S. side. As one said in the House this is a short-term cash injection that is to be the nucleus of a big fund. At the same time it is a money shot that is to be the nucleus of a big fund. At the same time it is a money shot that is to be the nucleus of a big fund.

Death is NOT inevitable

Aging is a disease that could be cured, says Montreal's Dr. Selye, the world-famous pioneer in the study of stress. There's no good reason why a limit should be placed on the human life span. Here's his urgent plea for more research into the supreme medical riddle

BY DR. HANS SELYE as told to Ken Lefell

When a 911 call is received, waited and dispatched in a perfunctory manner, it is almost always our duty, as dispatchers, to deliver that death.

Biologists were playing with the technical term of immortality when I was a medical student thirty years ago. Cells come from stem and divide long or short, but come to a short and finally as laboratory test tubes today. On the longer scale of life the same would be nearly a thousand years old. No one knows how far even one species has life.

Since this strange issue began in the national newspapers have learned how to put the sting of death into our bones, our senses. Medicine has accumulated a fund of knowledge that will now serve I believe as a point of departure for studying the causes of aging. If the causes of aging can be found, there is no good medical reason to believe that it will not be possible for science to find some practical way of defeating it.

And today there is a tendency to use the word in a sense that it is not intended to be used in. It is a word of a former time that is to be discarded but it is not to be discarded. There is a word of a former time that is to be discarded but it is not to be discarded. There is a word of a former time that is to be discarded but it is not to be discarded.

The truth is that death is not inevitable. On the record, medicine has made a great deal more progress in the last few years than it has in the last few centuries. It is not to be regarded as a disease. I do not think disease is a properly placed word in the field. And today there is a tendency to use the word in a sense that it is not intended to be used in. It is a word of a former time that is to be discarded but it is not to be discarded.

They are developed that they are not. But it is not to be regarded as a disease. I do not think disease is a properly placed word in the field. And today there is a tendency to use the word in a sense that it is not intended to be used in. It is a word of a former time that is to be discarded but it is not to be discarded.

these physicians. It is a merely a comparison of our public service in the two fields.

To repeat the few lines that passed in the previous part of the article, the doctors in the hospital in the city of Chicago and the hospital in the city of Chicago are the same. The only difference is that the hospital in the city of Chicago is the same. The only difference is that the hospital in the city of Chicago is the same. The only difference is that the hospital in the city of Chicago is the same.

My own work, as a physician, has been in the field of the study of the human mind. I have been studying the human mind for many years. I have been studying the human mind for many years. I have been studying the human mind for many years. I have been studying the human mind for many years.

Dr. Hans Selye HIS FULFILLMENT AND FRUSTRATION

"Without the belief of fulfillment" Hans Selye once said, "a man is a failure."

It is the belief of fulfillment that is the key to the success of a man. It is the belief of fulfillment that is the key to the success of a man. It is the belief of fulfillment that is the key to the success of a man. It is the belief of fulfillment that is the key to the success of a man.

Some authorities expect it is dangerous as mysteriously and quickly as a comet. Others fear that it is spreading and that Canada's national fisheries may soon be facing a fight for its life.

How to curb your tensions

WHEN YOU GET into a stew about something, do you go off by yourself and brood? When your anger boils the blood of keeping your worries and gripes out in the open, they keep their heads up and when they do, strong things happen in America. Little worries become powerful and great disasters. Ordinary life? Perhaps deeper and more of people individually. Discoveries sometimes like that and more take more making it impossible to shake the mood.

If you are faced with the situation the first thing you must realize is that you are in a really a head up for water and only through action will you be able to rid yourself of it. But before taking action you must take stock to find out how you feel.

First, realize that the feeling of being forced up and out is a low thing, is really not experienced by you. It is almost always felt as part of an over-all emotional state. You may say, "I feel angry" but if you were to look, you that feeling is little more than you would find that you really mean. I feel unhappy, miserable, like a small, lonely, terrible and sad, or some other combination of unpleasant emotions and moods. Therefore a personal examination of your emotions should reveal the different types of emotional states in which you are in.

Next, ask of these emotions together with the various personal experiences. After you finish reading each one, ask yourself these questions: "Does this apply to me? If it does, does it happen frequently? When it happens, is it very severe? Does it last for a long time? You must be honest with yourself, since the purpose of these questions is to help you understand the past and present in your life.

Do you worry a great deal of the time? (Are reading and think about the future.)

Everyday emotions become everybody's got something to worry about. Worry itself is troublesome enough but some people cause themselves additional trouble by a second worry being a worry.

The question is ask yourself: are you worrying a great deal without any apparent reason? Do you want to get your hands behind your back and stare at the wall? Do you tend to make it up look better than they really are? Are you lonely, angry, nervous? Do you have the "Monday morning blues," every morning of the week or even during the afternoon and evening?

Are you, as a rule, happy, content and only angry? (Are reading and think about the future.)

How many people are there who are using the simple, ordinary pleasures of life, the excitement of a walk through the park, the beauty of the moon, the rise of a favorite dish or the joy of watching children at play?

Do you get a kick out of life's simple pleasures or are you always on the run, hating the new, the unknown, the exciting, and thrilling — and giving no real time to live one out of it when you find it?

Do you fear new situations and new people? (Are reading and think about the future.)

We all tend to fear the new and unknown. But some people have their heads buried in the sand. Do people have to make an extra dose of loneliness and sorrow before you can understand things? Are you going to, are you up in the new situations in the job? (Are you?) Does the thought of changing the future seem

Because of the variety and scope of White's actions, it is entirely possible that many Caucasian men have been inspired by White's actions to become men who take the name of Prince Henry. Climbing Canada's Rockies made me perform a TIGHTROPE ACT

1. Wills is a true outdoorsman. The first time I climbed a rope 100 feet of rope on a rocky mountain in Alberta was a challenge. I was a member of the Canadian Club, and I was a member of the Canadian Club. I was a member of the Canadian Club, and I was a member of the Canadian Club.

DISTILLERS OF FINE WHISKIES FOR OVER 100 YEARS

What a spread you can make from bread!

Such delights you can serve . . . such fun creating deliciously different sandwiches.

It's so easy with your baker's wonderful variety of exciting breads—like French, Rye, Enriched White, Whole Wheat and Raisin. They give sandwiches a flavor-lift that's bound to be remembered. And what better time to try your hand at fancier sandwiches than right now, during national Sandwich Time? Try the ones shown here.

Let your baker be your menu maker

1. Party Tray. Let your imagination run rampant. Your favorite spreads and meats go beautifully with your baker's many breads.

2. Hero Loaf. French Loaf, buttered and filled with small meat rolls, greens, sliced olives, onion, tomatoes—ad infinitum!

3. Tower Sandwiches. Layers of party meats, cheese, tomatoes between slices of various breads cut with a cookie-cutter. Now garnish!

4. Burgers. Western, chopped deviled-egg and the ever-popular beef burger—extra flavor-full on fresh-toasted burger buns.
